

Tuesday, January 25, 2022 • 1:00 p.m. ET

REGISTER NOW

How Canada's P&C INDUSTRY is adapting to global risks

Canadian P&C industry executives share their views on what significant worldwide risks mean for insurers here.

If it's not COVID-19, it might be a catastrophic flood or fire, possibly spurred by climate change. Or it could be a cyberattack that originates offshore. These events can cause severe property damage, loss of business income, supply chain disruptions and employee dislocations. How will cascading, often global, risks affect insureds in Canada? How will they impact pricing for insurance and reinsurance? How will the P&C industry harness technologies that enhance customer interactions, improve risk modelling, and more? And what changes do they anticipate for insurance markets?

Moderated by: Phil Porado,
Managing Editor, Canadian Underwriter

PANELLISTS

Carol Jardine

EVP & President,
P&C Operations, Canada
*The Wawanesa Mutual
Insurance Company*

Bernard McNulty

Chief Agent and Head
of Claims, Canada
*Allianz Global
Corporate & Specialty*

Andy Taylor

CEO
*Gore Mutual
Insurance Company*